

Why We Need Your Social Security Number

Why do we need your Social Security Number?

We use the number to create a unique record for every individual that we serve, and the Social Security Number (SSN) ensures that uniqueness. It helps us to provide you with information and programs specific to your personal needs. Your SSN is kept confidential. The numbers you key do not show up on the screen. A limited number of State of Wisconsin security officers, with our highest security clearance, have the ability to see the numbers once you key them. No one working at a Wisconsin Job Center has access to your Social Security Number. JobCenterofWisconsin.com will not display your SSN to employers, nor will it be shared with other entities unless required by law.

What if I refuse to give you my Social Security Number?

You can refuse to supply any or all information asked for on the registration screens. You are not legally required to provide any of this information to use Job Center of Wisconsin. However, if you do not supply sufficient information to create a username and password for yourself, your ability to use JobCenterofWisconsin.com will be limited. A username and password gives you easy access to your job seeking and career management activities. Tracking of these services by a unique identifier (such as Social Security Number) is required by the US Department of Labor.
